Local Duck Hunter Has Luck

(By Vince Doyle)
Mr. Thurber, the accountant in the local Treasury Branch, told the Star reporter today that he had had very good luck this season. It seems that he has had his share of "bag limit" besides scoring some excellent shots. Mr. Thurber gave The Star to understand that he "grounded" three ducks with one shot near Ribstone Lake and has made a "two-in-one" shot at Baxter Lake.

These two lakes are preferred by many out of the numerous other good places nearby.

Although Mr. Thurber seems satisfied, other hunters feel that this season leaves much to be desired in the way of large flocks of these birds.

The season closes officially on November 11th so let's hope that other hunters have some stories of good fortune during the next three weeks.

Wet Weather Slows Harvesting

(By Vince Doyle)
An increase in the rain-fall around Wainwright Tuesday put the farmers and grain buyers out on a limb. In another report it will be noticed that the grain is tough and damp and it was remarked that if the weather did not show signs of improving, the crop which is a little over half finished, would become increasingly tough and losses would be heavy.

Camp Hospital To Become Mental Home

Edmonton, Oct. 8.—Alberta Health Minister Cross said today the Provincial government has obtained a lease with option, on the Canadian Army's Wainwright training centre hospital and will use it to care for 500 mental defective.

Obtaining of the large hospital, constructed during the war by the army, is expected to give relief to the accommodation situation in the province for mental defectives.

Placing of the "low grade" mental defectives in the Wainwright hospital will mean that the Red Deer institution can be made into a school for training "high grade" mental defectives, he said. An institution set aside for this training of "high grade" mental defectives has been one of the objectives of the department for some time, he added.

"Obtaining of the Wainwright hospital also will mean that we can clean up the entire waiting list of low grade mental defectives into institutions," he said.

The Provincial government has obtained the hospital on the basis of a 10-year lease from the Department of National Defence and a privy council order covering the lease is being sought. After the lease expires, the hospital will revert to the Province as a part of the Dominion-Provincial agreement now covering the entire former National Park.

Something New Has Been Added

(By Vince Doyle)
Between the hours of 1:30 and 4:10 p.m. Wednesday, a large new transformer was installed by the Calgary Light and Power Co., under the supervision of Mr. Stevenson, the general manager. The new transformer is the largest one serving the business section, it is twice the size of the old one and weighs half a ton.

The reason for the replacement is reported to be the result of an overload of a hundred per cent on the old transformer. The overload was not only caused by an increase in the number of houses but also, as a result of the various electrical appliances installed in the stores. The transformer serves the West side of the hotel to the Separate School.

Mr. Stevenson stated that it was regrettable that the installation took so long, but explained that not only was the transformer cumbersome to handle, but the various braces, etc. had to be changed to accommodate the extremely heavy and delicate transformer.

A very delicious lunch and pleasant visit with the Chaucer ladies brought a happy finale to a successful evening.

Bride Elect Honored At Shower

Mrs. J. Sutherland and Miss Jean Rutherford entertained at a cup and saucer bridal shower at the home of their mother Mrs. P. Rutherford, on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Marjorie (Midge) Coffield, a bride elect of this week.

About fifteen guests assembled and a social evening was enjoyed. The guest of honor was then presented with an array of china cups and saucers laid on a table tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, for which she thanked those present.

Lunch was served by the hostesses and the party dispersed after extending many wishes for a happy married life for Miss Coffield.

Pro and Con To Solicit Funds

The local branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society has a meeting last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lyle with Mr. Lyle, the President, in charge.

Arrangements were made to hold a canvas of the town during the week of October 26th to 31st when it is hoped a hearty response will be given the canvassers for this worthy cause.

A tasty lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the hostesses.

Shortages Harass Buyers and Merchants

(By Vince Doyle)
In a recent survey conducted by "The Star" concerning general shortages it was found that in most markets the oldest class of consumers was the scarcity of pork, especially bacon. One butcher remarked that although people were clamoring for bacon at the present time he believed that as soon as it again became plentiful there would be a decrease in sales. "Just going to show, he said, people always want what they can't get."

Our perennations then took us to the hardware shops where their main headache was with large items. The owner (whom we interviewed first) answered the first question with, "If I told you of all the petty

Local Grain Buyers Disgruntled Over Situation

(By Vince Doyle)
Most local grain buyers agreed today when "The Star" reporter interviewed them that this has been the worst year for all grains since 1930. Between 70 and 85 per cent of the grain is tough with the grades running from No. 2 Northern to rejected because of sprouting.

It seems that most of the bad grain handled is the result of the damp weather prevalent in most parts of Alberta. Only about 60 to 70 per cent of the grain is harvested at this writing and the buyers interviewed stated that if the wet weather continues the losses will be increasingly heavy.

As one buyer remarked, "This year sure turned out to be a grain buyers' headache."

M.D. Buys New Snow Fences

It was announced last week from the M.D. office that the council had authorized the purchase of new snow fences to facilitate easier winter travel over municipal roads this winter.

Mr. C. Wilbraham, said in an interview with "The Star," that 100 rolls had been bought and that they have arrived. It will be noticed that these fences are now rolled up behind the M.D. office and are awaiting a coat of paint on the ends. Mr. Wilbraham stated that something new in identification has been worked out. It is the intention of the council to have the ends of the fences painted green. Mr. Wilbraham said that with the Provincial Government owning snow fences and others being owned by farmers to make their travel easier, it has been a question in the spring as to whose fences belong to who. He said that he thought the idea of green ends would solve some of the trouble that has been prevalent in seasons past.

Each roll of fence will stretch 100 feet along a road and with the 100 rolls obtained for the coming winter, it will make 10,000 feet of hitherto impassable roads, a pleasure to drive on.

Sky Fire Ball Seen Over Wainwright

A flaming object about the same size as a football was seen passing over Wainwright, by two young girls, on Monday night last. It is possible that many people saw this phenomenon, but it was only reported to The Star by Misses Joan and Naomi Mockford, daughters of Mrs. V. Mockford of Wainwright.

The girls claim that while playing a game with other children in the neighborhood about 9:15 p.m. they noticed this ball of fire moving overhead. They said in an interview with The Star that it appeared to be of a reddish color and had no streaks or tail following it. There was no noise attached to the moving mass. It appeared to be travelling in a north westerly direction.

This report would seem to tie in with a report given in the Edmonton Journal a few days ago in which it was claimed that someone had seen the same spectacle at approximately the same time on the same evening.

Mishap Disrupts C.N.R. Schedule

(By Vince Doyle)
Early Saturday afternoon, at approximately 3:30 p.m., an east-bound freight train on the "main line" from Wainwright to Saskatoon ran into difficulty when two of the box cars were derailed. The incident occurred just two miles east of Butts.

Although not serious in the sense that anybody was injured or killed, it was still serious in the light of the time, money and machinery tied up during the delay caused by the accident.

Even though the wrecking crew arrived shortly after the occurrence, seven hours passed before the local No. 11 passenger arrived in Wainwright.

It is believed that some damage was done to the track bed which necessitated repair work before train traffic could be moved on schedule.

Mrs. Phil Inklin Hostess at Bridal Shower

On Saturday afternoon a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Phil Inklin in honor of Mrs. Harold Clifford (nee Margaret Shotts of Ribstone).

A social afternoon was enjoyed by all after which a doll carriage laden with many lovely gifts was wheeled into the room by little Eileen Oldham and Siela Ballentine. Before opening each present the bride made a wish for the giver. A delicious lunch was then served by the hostess after which everyone wished the bride much joy and happiness for the future.

Go North Young Man

(A serial by Vince Doyle)
Part I—Northern Nocturne
To the Great North, a sparsely inhabited, rugged but beautiful country, the urge to wander directed my footsteps. Perhaps I was a "push" footstep for it would have been rather difficult to walk 1300 miles from Edmonton via the Alaska Highway to White Horse, Y.T. It was during the war years that I first decided to go there and so with a little of what is commonly known as "pull" I allowed my way through miles of "red tape" and boarded the U.S. Army chartered Greyhound bus.

This was towards the end of the war so the war-time traffic had more or less diminished. This lack of activity on the highway gave the impression that the country was altogether desolate of life. This of course was a false impression for while travelling at night one sees much wild life. Just for example we were travelling along the highway on a pitch dark night with only the glare of the headlights to break the monotony, when suddenly out of nowhere a red streak bounded into view. It turned out to be a beautiful but rare animal known as the "red fox". This fox ran with seeming ease in front of the bus for nearly a mile (we were going 60 mph) before disappearing into the dense forest. Immediately afterwards we noted a large black bear that crossed the road ahead with a lumbering stride. In talking to the bus driver I learned that it was quite common to see many animals crossing the road at night. The reason he gave for this (and I believe it is quite plausible) is that the road divides the forest from the river, and the animals to get to the water had to cross this man-made barrier. So as a gentle hint in passing, if you ever decide to venture into the North travel part way at night and the sights of wild life that you are sure to see will amply reward you for your trouble.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity of extending my sincere thanks to The Doctors of the Clinic and the Matron and Staff of the Wainwright hospital for their kindness and care during my recent illness, and to the many friends who called or sent cards, smiles and fruit. Many thanks also to the kind friends and neighbors for being such a help and comfort to my wife and children while I was in the hospital.

THE LONG OR THE SHORT

Fashions have never interested us much before, but there is one fashion that has caught our eye, and to say the least, we are not in full accord with the designer. That any mere male should at this time pick up and say his two cents worth, after it has been decided for the coming season, is almost more than one's life is worth, but here goes on our say.

As far as women's fashions go we say right here and now there is no such thing as new fashion. There is merely a repetition of former styles with modifications. The trend that is being emphasized today with the length of women's skirts as they are, is merely a throw back from the 1920's. It was very noticeable that at that time skirts were long and the fashion then was to shorten them. About this time the bobbed hair caused as much controversy as the shortening of ladies skirts. Not your Editor, but many people who will remember that far back, can recall the moral issue that was taking place in those times. Sermons were preached from the pulpit, women's organizations all over the country were crying loudly and long over the apparent laxity in our moral code, to no avail, for we have seen the change that has taken place since that time.

To be sure today there is no moral issue at stake, but just a plain change of fashions, and in a recent Gallop Poll, women overwhelmingly voted that they were not in favor of the lengthening of the hem line. This result no doubt was brought about by the thought of having to change the entire wardrobe, with its ultimate change in the clothing budget.

Personally we do not like the look of the longer hem line, but whatever we say will probably have no effect on what the fashion designers will do next year.

We do know that a great deal of precious cloth was saved for the armed forces during the war by the introduction of a legislation which permitted only certain types of clothing to be manufactured, thus saving greatly needed supplies. Is not the same need being felt today in the countries of Europe with winter coming on and no more clothing to be found than the law of decency allows. People overseas need extra clothing, while we here at home use it as if it were worth no more than nil.

Wouldn't it have been the right thing to do to hold off until the world was fully clothed before a revolution in clothing styles was started? The extra cloth being used today by manufacturers to lower the line of ladies clothes could certainly be used to good advantage to clothe the people of Britain and Europe.

The dress designing business is a huge enterprise and without the usual shot in the arm in the form of fashion changes, would go stagnant in no time. This no doubt is the reason for new fashions every six or twelve months. Well we have had our say and as we mentioned before, whatever we say will not change the issue, for time to come life will go on around us as if there had been no apparent change in the fashion of clothing. But in this day and age we are supposed to be a progressive people and if reviving former fashions and adding a do-dad there and something else here, is the pinnacle of advancement then truly we are living in one long rut.

IT'S FOR THE PUBLIC HEALTH

Some time ago, during the last time field maneuvers were in operation in the Army Camp, the military authorities saw fit to place certain eating places "Out of Bounds" to their personnel. This action was brought about by the authorities because of the apparent lack of sanitation by the owners of the respective cafes.

It is not our intention to publicize these business places for whatever affects business in the town, also affects the town. We have been given to understand that the proprietors of these places have taken steps to clean up their premises, and likely by this time they would pass any inspection. In any event it is unfortunate that this action had to be taken. It not only gives unfavorable publicity to those restaurants that are keeping a tidy house, but it is publicity that can make it tough for all those in the business for time to come. The Army has the name of being strict in some respects and eating places which they have concluded might injure the health of their men, if conditions such as these are allowed to exist, could be just as detrimental to the health of the general public.

Operating a business in these times is no snap, and a cafe business must have its special headaches, but dirty, unsanitary conditions in any business is sheer neglect and no excuse is valid. It is hoped that there will not be another decree from the "powers that be" to place premises out of bounds because of improper sanitation or through faulty sanitary conditions.

by ottawa observer

There is much discussion and speculation in Canada's Capital on the declaration made last week by the Minister of External Affairs on the occasion of the 18th annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. Speaking in his home city of Quebec it was obvious that the Minister intended his declaration not only for all Canada but for other nations of the world. "We are not going to stand idly by and allow situations to develop to the point where they would be apt to be irremediable" was the assurance that Canadians were very anxious to hear.

Just what measures might be necessary to protect the welfare of the Canadian people against depression and to exert every effort to prevent aggression leading to war, no one is quite sure. Observers here are sure that the government will have the cooperation, not only of business men but of loyal Canadians from all parts to meet this emergency as it had to meet the needs of world war. If even to "some measure of regimentation and direction of our economy". If total world cooperation cannot be obtained we must very soon arrange to work with nations that will work with us. It is significant that Russia is determined to break down, if she can, the economies of all free enterprise countries.

First to Reduce Old Age Pensions

Supporters of the socialist party are very much on the defensive these days. After talking for three years about the Saskatchewan government's superior social conscience and claiming that the C.C.F. government was first to bring in some legislation they are now asked to explain why a government, which claimed to put "humility first" becomes the first government to reduce old age pensions. Since April 1 the old age pension in Saskatchewan was $30.00 of which the federal government paid $14.75 and the provincial government $15.25. Effective May 1 the federal government increased pensions $5.00 per month which would raise the pension to $35.00 in Saskatchewan. The Saskatchewan C.C.F. government immediately withdrew its $5.00 supplement to deprive old age pensioners of the total federal increase. The C.C.F. government thus becomes the first government to reduce old age pensions since they were introduced by Prime Minister King in 1927.

Labor claims fail

Socialists have sought to make quick inroads in labor union circles by pointing to what they claimed was the "best labor legislation in the world" passed by the C.C.F. government in Saskatchewan. They are now finding it difficult to explain why as soon as a strike occurred in the packing houses they asked to be relieved of all responsibility and asked the federal department of labour to intervene although the province had taken over jurisdiction when the federal government's war-time powers lapsed. Saskatchewan's economy is almost entirely dependent on agriculture and farmers are losing heavily on account of the strike which came at a high point of their market ing season.

They also find it difficult to explain why, when labour was on strike in the government box factory at Prince Albert, the socialist government broke its own law by threatening to close the factory permanently if the men did not go back to work.

The dangers we face

The dangers which face Canada of loss of foreign trade, from which we get one-third of our income, is shown in a letter from Canada's Trade Commissioner in China. He states that: "Three hundred and sixty-six enquiries for assistance in the sale and distribution in China of Canadian products have been received by his office during the last seven months. The articles include canned food, confectionery, costume jewellery, toilet articles, toys, shoes, furniture, electric stoves and plastics.

The Chinese Government will not consider issuing permits for the importation of these items under any circumstances. The importation of most of these commodities is prohibited, even when foreign exchange is supplied from abroad. In fact, the office has been informed that the ban on all luxury items will not be lifted in all probability for the next two or three years, and not even then if the financial state of China fails to show considerable improvement."

The canned foods include fish, meat and vegetables and affect the markets for Canadian farm products.

SIGHT FOR SCHOLARS

Eye-sight which requires correction may account for poor grades of some school children, doctors declare. The Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, has pointed out that low standing in class does not necessarily indicate inferior intellect. The department urges the co-operation of teachers and parents with the family physician to ensure that children are given a fair chance, through adjusted eye-sight where necessary, to study and to avoid eye-strain.

FARMING NOTES

CROP ROTATIONS IN EASTERN SASKATCHEWAN

Over a period of years an attempt has been made to test a number of crop sequences on the illustration stations in eastern Saskatchewan, from the standpoint of weed control and maintenance of soil fertility, says E. V. McCurdy, Dominion Experimental Farm, Indian Head, Sask. A five-year rotation has been under observation for over ten years on a number of the stations. This consists of summer-fallow, wheat, clover, wheat and then oats. Yields have been well maintained. On one station in the southern part of this territory where the land has been under cultivation for over 60 years, this rotation has been under test for the last 21 years. For this period, wheat after summer-fallow averaged 19 bushels to the acre, and after the clover-grass mixture 16.4 bushels.

On a station in the northeast the eleven year average for wheat after summer-fallow is 26.2 bushels and after clover 22.4 bushels. On the same farm, records have been kept on the grain rotation, summer-fallow, wheat. In this, the yield of wheat on summer-fallow was 26 bushels per acre and wheat after 16. The yield on summer-fallow was 26 bushels per acre and wheat after 16. The yield on fallow was practically the same in both rotations but the crop of wheat after wheat, was not as clean, and the yield was lower than after clover. The clover was ploughed as soon as possible after the hay was removed and hence perennial weeds are given a severe setback. On the same farm a four-year crop sequence summer-fallow, wheat, clover and barley, has been under observation.

This seems more promising than the cropping practice which includes two crops after clover. The second crop after clover in the longer rotation usually contains more weeds than is desirable under good farming conditions.

RAISING GOOD DAIRY CALVES

As the cost of raising a poor calf is almost as great as raising a good calf, the successful dairyman replaces his herd with calves from his best cows that have been bred to the highest quality bull obtainable.

Raising the dairy calf begins with the pregnant cow which has had proper feeding and care, particularly before freshening.

At the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, says V. S. Logan, of the Animal Husbandry Division, the calf is removed from the dam immediately. The dam's first milk is fed for the first few days. The importance of feeding this colostrum is most important as it contains both passive and disease resistant qualities.

Whole milk is fed for the first four to eight weeks and is gradually changed to skim milk over a two week period. Less robust calves are kept on whole milk for a longer period than the healthier calves. Care is exercised not to overfeed calves, about one pound of milk for each ten pounds of body weight. As the change over from whole milk to skim milk is made, the butterfat is replaced by scalded flax seed meal which forms a jelly. As the calves develop, a mixture of three parts of ground flax seed and two parts of peas are added to two parts of flax seed meal, scalded, making a porridge to be added to the milk. The feeding of this porridge is increased gradually until at three to four months of age the calves are receiving a cupful of skim milk. At four weeks the calves are encouraged to eat a dry grain mixture of five parts ground oats, three parts bran, three parts oil cake meal one part malt sprouts, one per cent salt. This is placed in a trough within easy reach. At five months a calf should eat up to two pounds per day.

Only the best quality hay available should be fed to calves. Second cut alfalfa or fine clover carefully cured makes a very good roughage. This is made available at about three weeks of age and fed in quantities that the calves will clean up. Succulent feeds such as silage or roots are fed, starting at about six months of age. Fresh clean water should be available at all times.

The feeding of vitamins to calves is recommended by some authorities. At the Experimental Farm no vitamin supplement is added, as it is in.

considered that sufficient vitamin content is supplied in the ration. Under certain circumstances of apparent vitamin deficiency, the addition of vitamin capsules will alleviate and their early feeding is the best insurance toward this goal.

Summer fallow

Once again freeze-up is just around the corner and there are always a number of jobs around the farm that have to be done before the snow flies. One of the most important is the last stroke on the summer fallow. All Quack Grass and Thistle infestations should be turned over this fall with the plow or tiller and left in an open furrow to winter kill. Not only is this operation important on the summer fallow field but also on the stubble land.

Where winter wind erosion is a problem on clean black summer fallow this land should be ridged with a cultivator in a NE/SW direction to hold the snow and prevent soil drifting and water run-off in the spring. Seed Grain

At the conference held in Edmonston last week it was pointed out that seed grain is going to be very scarce in the Province next spring. I would suggest that anybody having grain that will make seed, especially oats and barley, to give us a list of what kind and approximately how much you will have as we will most likely be taking orders the same as last year. I expect Oat barley will be in demand again for weed control.

Warble Fly Control

Another campaign will be launched in the spring of 1948 for the control of the dreaded warble fly in cattle. Approximately 6000 head of cattle were sprayed last spring in the M.D. of Wainwright which we consider a good average for the first year of service. We found during our tour the proper spraying pens were very few in number and consequently a number of cattle were sprayed under very adverse conditions, which resulted in the slowing down of operations.

I would suggest that anybody interested in having their cattle sprayed for warbles next spring, to build the spraying pens this fall before the ground is too hard to sink posts. A good suggestion would be to organize districts among yourselves and

by Kerry Wood

At this time of year we say goodbye to Blackie, the crow. Migration flocks started to form around the latter end of August, and have been growing in size ever since as they gather momentum for the leisurely move southward across our western farm fields. At first we could count fifty to one hundred birds in the flock, but lately the crow groups number up to five or six hundred birds. Within a week or so, most of us will have seen the last of the crows until next March, when they come northward again.

Coastal residents of British Columbia say: "Crows: all winter long—the 'chick'—is a fall cone in of our Western Crow, the variety of Blackie found from inland British Columbia to Manitoba. The fall cone so called because of its habit of scavenging fish dinners whenever possible, should be called the Northwest Crow. It is a smaller bird than the prairie Blackie, and has a weaker, ready-sounding voice. Prairie visitors to the Pacific Coast always remark on the queer sounding crows of that region, so different from the robust, far-carrying caws of the Western variety.

Prairie crows migrate southward to winter in many of the mid-western States, Kansas and Oklahoma being two favorite wintering states for these birds. And while crows are down there, they really get it in the neck from hunters and agricultural people. Crows are notoriously fond of corn; large flocks arrive on corn fields before the harvest is gathered. Hence crow damage to farm crops is much more serious in the States than in Western Canada, which has caused our American friends to carry out many anti-crow campaigns.

A few years ago the Crow Bomb was invented. It is a simple device consisting of lead shot, cement and gravel, and a stick of dynamite all cast together in a special mold. Such bombs are deadly when exploded among night-roosts favored by crows. Of course, it must be remembered that crows flocks are much larger on their wintering grounds than those we see migrating across Canada: flocks of forty to fifty thousand birds are frequently reported.

Some Blackie, such crows return to the same roost area night after night throughout the winter season. The anti-crow campaigners locate a roost, usually situated in an isolated copse of trees, then hang a number of Crow-Bombs around the roost during the day, stringing all the wires from the detonating caps to a battery well screened from the roost and safely off to one side. At evening, the crows flock to the roost and by dark the tree branches are heavily laden with sleepy birds. That's when the bombs are exploded, and the slaughter is terrific.

That's why crows haven't been quite so plentiful in Western Canada these last few years. The Crow Bomb has been in general use nearly six years now, and crows are being thinned out. Blackie is sometimes defended by farmers of the prairie provinces, who have watched crows feed on outcrops during the springtime and grasshoppers during July and August. But we all know that crows feed and destroy large numbers of game bird eggs every spring, a habit which brands Blackie as a villain in the eyes of all sportsmen.

build a centrally located pen as close to the main road as possible and one that will surround number of farmers at once. In this way the spraying charge is less and it also speeds up the service, as we are able to spray up to 100 head per hour. Further information on the spraying service and building pens may be obtained from this office.

ONION JUICE STRENGTHENS 2, 4-D

As a result of expediments conducted at the Michigan Agricultural Experimental Station, weeds may soon be literally sweeping themselves to death. These preliminary tests indicate that a mixture of the chemical weed killer, 2,4-D and specially treated onion juice not only does a more thorough job of weed control but covers a greater area.

According to the horticulturists who carried out the research in this new phase of agricultural chemistry, the strength of the weed killer may be increased from 10 to 20 times by addition of onion juice in the solution. They found that one pound of onion properly mashed and mixed with two and one-half gallons of 2,4-D solution was the most effective mixture. The sodium salt of 2, 4-D was employed.

Widespread use of onion juice to increase the weed killer's potency is not being recommended, however, until further experiments are conducted.

PINK SALMON MAY BE EXPORTED FREELY

Effective September 25, permits for the export to any destination of fresh, frozen, salted or smoked pink salmon were issued freely by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The run of pink salmon this year ensures an adequate supply for domestic needs, making this relaxation of control possible.

PLASTIC LENSES

A London firm has undertaken large-scale production of new plastic lenses which have numerous advantages over glass ones: they are more transparent than glass, giving clearer vision; they are less sensitive to heat, and so less liable to mist; they weigh less and cost less; besides all of which, they are practically unbreakable. They are cast in stainless steel moulds, requiring neither grinding nor polishing and are described as being equal to the best ground lenses.

COVER GARBAGE

Warning that scavengers are a menace to public health has been issued by the Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa. In a call on all householders to deposit their garbage only in substantial containers which can be kept covered, the health authorities point out that strays, including such notorious carriers of disease as rats, more easily attack loose garbage, or material discarded only in paper parcels or cardboard cartons.

World of Wheat

THE PRICE OF GOOD SEED

Prices for Registered and Certified seed for this year have been established. Seed growers, representatives of Crop Improvement Commission, such as the "Crop Testing Plant" and others, which distribute seed, at no profit to themselves, representatives of Provincial Governments, and of the Dominion Plant Products Division, recently met and agreed upon uniform prices. The prices to be paid to seed growers have been increased over last year, based on the knowledge that Parliament will increase the price of wheat and make it retroactive for 1946 and 1946, but seed growers do not receive any participation certificates from the Wheat Board, so they are obliged to add to the price of seed the benefits they would have received had they sold their seed as grain to elevators. It is hoped, therefore, that when farmers note these higher seed prices they will remember that for the extra time, expense, effort and work seed growers are obliged to expend, that they are still receiving but a modest return for their additional work. If Registered seed is now at a comparatively high price, do not let us forget that the quality of this seed is even higher.

ITEMS OF INTEREST IN

THE WORLD OF FOODSTUFFS

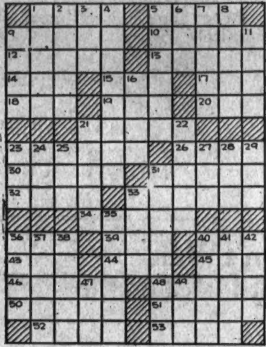

Argentina's second official estimate of wheat acreage now places the seeded acreage at 18,709,000 acres, a drop of 638,000 acres from the first estimate of 19,347,000 acres—World production of oats for 1947 has been estimated at 4,120 million bushels, some 3% below the 1946 production of 4,260 million bushels.
